Backstory

Behind your local Starbucks, where the siren logo smiles and the air always smells like espresso and ambition, lives a creature named Britney. Britney wasn't always a woodland diva. She was born in a patch of enchanted fungus that grew due to a cleaning supply spill, behind a Whole Foods. No one really knows what kind of creature Britney is but she is cute as can be. The whole foods eventually was shut down and turned into a parking lot forcing Britney out of her home. Carried on the back of a raccoon she bribed with half a pumpkin scone, she found the woods behind Starbucks and decided, "Ugh, fine, I guess this'll work."

It was there that Britney discovered two life-changing things: iced mocha macchiatos and shroompops, a mushroom-based cake pop she invented herself using forest fungi and bits of leftover human pastries. Now she spends her days sipping coffee, lounging on moss like it's a luxury, and scrolling her cracked iPhone 6, which she found discarded by a very overwhelmed college student.

Britney gave herself the name and her sassy personality by watching her favorite people at the Starbucks, teen girls. She loved their fashion and drama and wanted to be just like them. She spends her time taking whatever is left behind at the Starbucks to play dress up, painting her nails with the discarded berry drinks, and mumbling, "Ugh, people," and texting no one because the phone hasn't had service since 2017.

One day, Britney was on the hunt for her favorite drink, and iced mocha macchiato, and was lurking in the drive through waiting to snatch it. Britney was always willing to do anything to get her drink, she gets pretty hangry when she has to hunt down her iced coffee. She saw her opportunity when she heard the magic words being ordered and waited to strike. As she went to snatch the coffee right before your eyes, she missed her perfect timing and knocked the coffee into your car and all over you. Before she could run away, she dropped her broken iPhone into the puddle of ice coffee and was instantly zapped into it. Trying to figure out what had just happened to your drink you see the phone and decide to take it home with you to fix up. You put together this newly working phone that looks more like a game, but when you turn it on there's Britney as angry as can be. Now you spend your days keeping Britney happy by painting her nails, playing dress up, and giving her coffee and shroompops before she gets too angry and breaks your device.

Intro Scenes

Logo
Britney becomes angry as the logo drops down. Little stars in the logo slightly rotate.

Tilt
Britney does a small head tilt as her way of saying hello.

Idle
Britney is in her idle state. Arms, ears, and tails slowly move up and down to signal waiting for an action.

Menu
Clicking the up navigation button opens the menu to choose an action.

Painting Nails

Nail Menu
Selecting Paint Nails brings up a secondary menu to choose nail color. Britney is in her idle state.

Pink
Each color plays the same animation but the nails and polish bottle are different colors. Here she is being painted.

Red
Here she is admiring the final product of her nails being painted, matching the selected color.

Purple
Here the brush is going back into the bottle to move off screen. Britney put her nails away.

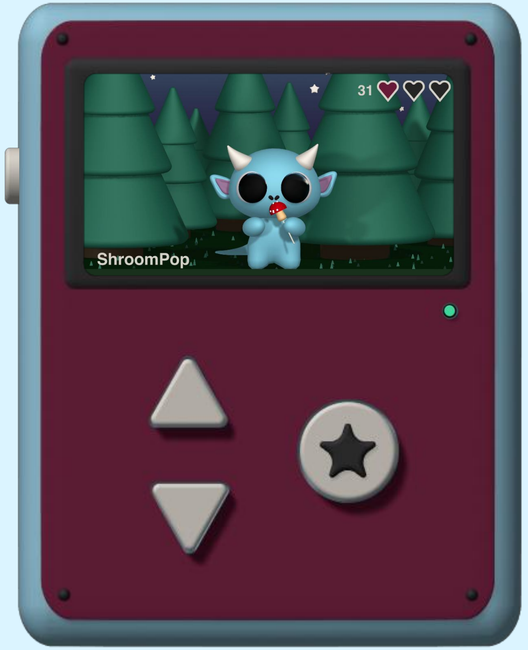

Snack

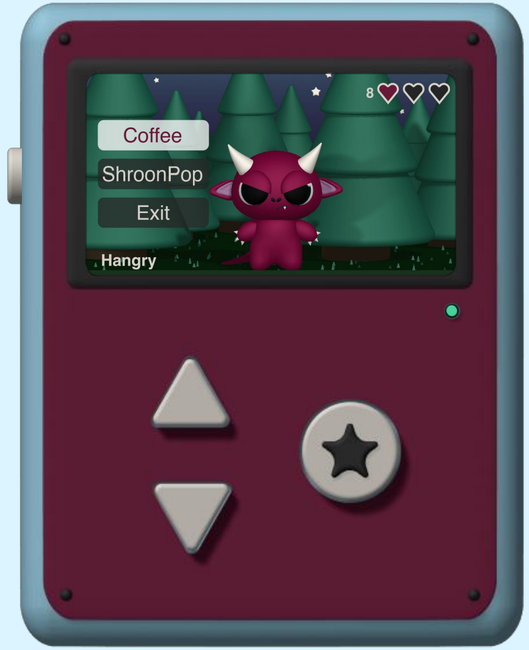

Snack Menu
Selecting snack brings up a secondary menu to pick a snack for Britney. She is in the idle state.

Coffee
Britney drinks a coffee adding 15 points to her health. As she drinks the coffee visibly goes down.

ShroomPop
Britney eats a shroompop adding 10 points to her health. As she eats the shroompop it scales down.

Hangry
After opening the secondary menu, if you wait more than 3 seconds to pick an option, Britney gets hangry. Selecting an option will make her happy again and work the same as normal.

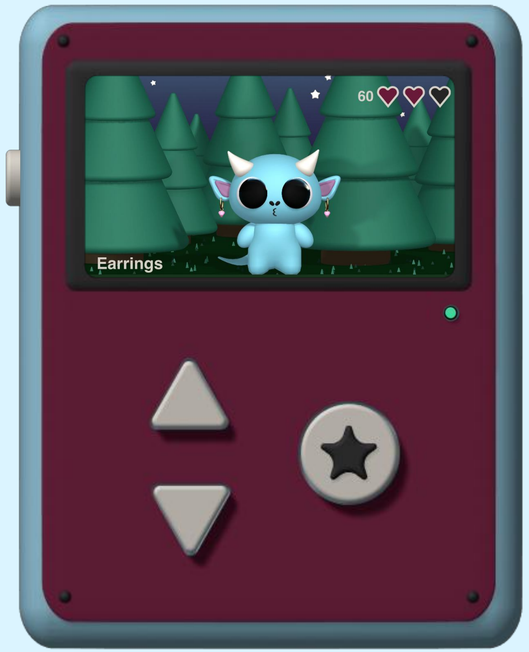

Dress Up

Dress Up Menu
Selecting dress up brings up a secondary menu to pick an accessory for Britney. She is in the idle state.

Bow
Selecting bow drains life by 5 points. The bow appears from the bottom. When the up navigation is selected it returns to the dress up menu by rotating up.

Earrings
Earrings is the same action and point reduction as bow.

Bracelet
Bracelet is the same action and point reduction as bow.

Rest

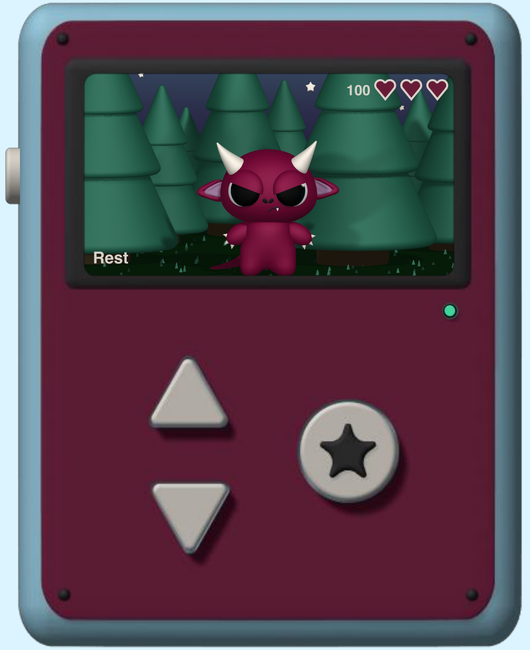

Menu
Rest starts in the main menu once you select it.

Sitting
Britney rests by going on her phone. Resting increases life by one every two seconds. She will sit until you click the up navigation.

Standing
Once the up navigation is pressed, Britney gets up and life goes down again by one.

Angry
Britney gets angry for one second after you make her get up. Clicking the up navigation will return to the main menu.

Death

Dead
When Britney “dies”, life level hits 0, or the user clicks the power button, she gets angry.

Grabs Phone
Britney then grabs her phone.

Breaks Screen
Britney then throws the phone, breaking the screen.

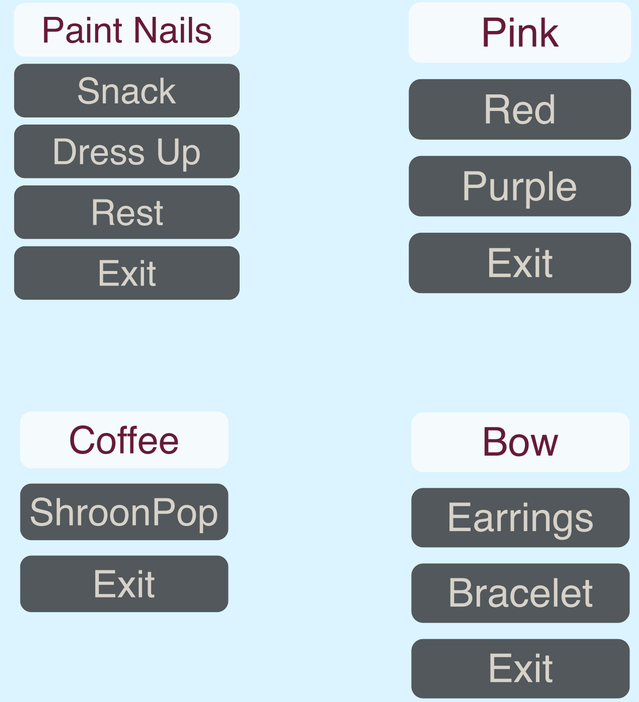

Black
The screen then turns black showing that she broke the display. It then fades to an all black screen with no cracks. At this point the user can hit the power button to restart.

Me

Make up a story about a monster that has a lizard like tail goblin like ears big eyes horns and sharp teeth but is very cute, explain that she has a personality like a teenage girl and gets hangry and talk about things like what she likes to eat.

Chat GTP

Once upon a time, in a mossy forest just beyond where the Wi-Fi ends, lived a small, sharp-toothed creature named Hornelia. With her velvet-black horns that curled like question marks, gobliny ears that twitched when she was annoyed, and a lizard tail that swished dramatically whenever she didn't get her way, Hornelia was the most adorable chaos gremlin to ever exist.
But don’t let the sparkly eyes fool you. Hornelia had attitude. Like, teenage girl-level attitude.

Hornelia's Vibe

She’s basically the forest version of a girl who would roll her eyes at group projects, live for iced coff ee, and call everyone "ugh." She's got a sass reservoir the size of a dragon’s hoard and a very specifi c aesthetic: mismatched socks, glittery claws, and a hoodie made from enchanted bat wings that she swears she thrifted.
She listens to forest lo-fi (lots of frog beats and leaf-rustling) and keeps a diary made of birch bark where she writes extremely passive-aggressive poems about the other woodland creatures who don’t get her.

The Hangry Struggle is Real

Now, here's the thing about Hornelia: she gets hangry. Like, real hangry. One minute she’s skipping around humming some cursed little tune, and the next she’s growling at birds because lunch is late.
Her favorite foods? Only the weirdest stuff :
- Crispy beetle chips (extra salted, no legs)
- Toadstool tacos with swamp guac
- Crunchy pinecone clusters drizzled in dew syrup
- And her absolute must-have: Moonberry Popshrooms — rare glowing mushrooms that only grow during a full moon. She'll throw an entire fi t if someone eats the last one. You’ve been warned.

She’s not into sweet stuff unless it’s fermented tree sap, which she drinks with a pink straw like it’s a boba tea. If she goes more than four hours without a snack? Her eyes get glowy, her tail starts lashing, and she says mean things like "your aura is dusty."

Hornelia’s Hobbies

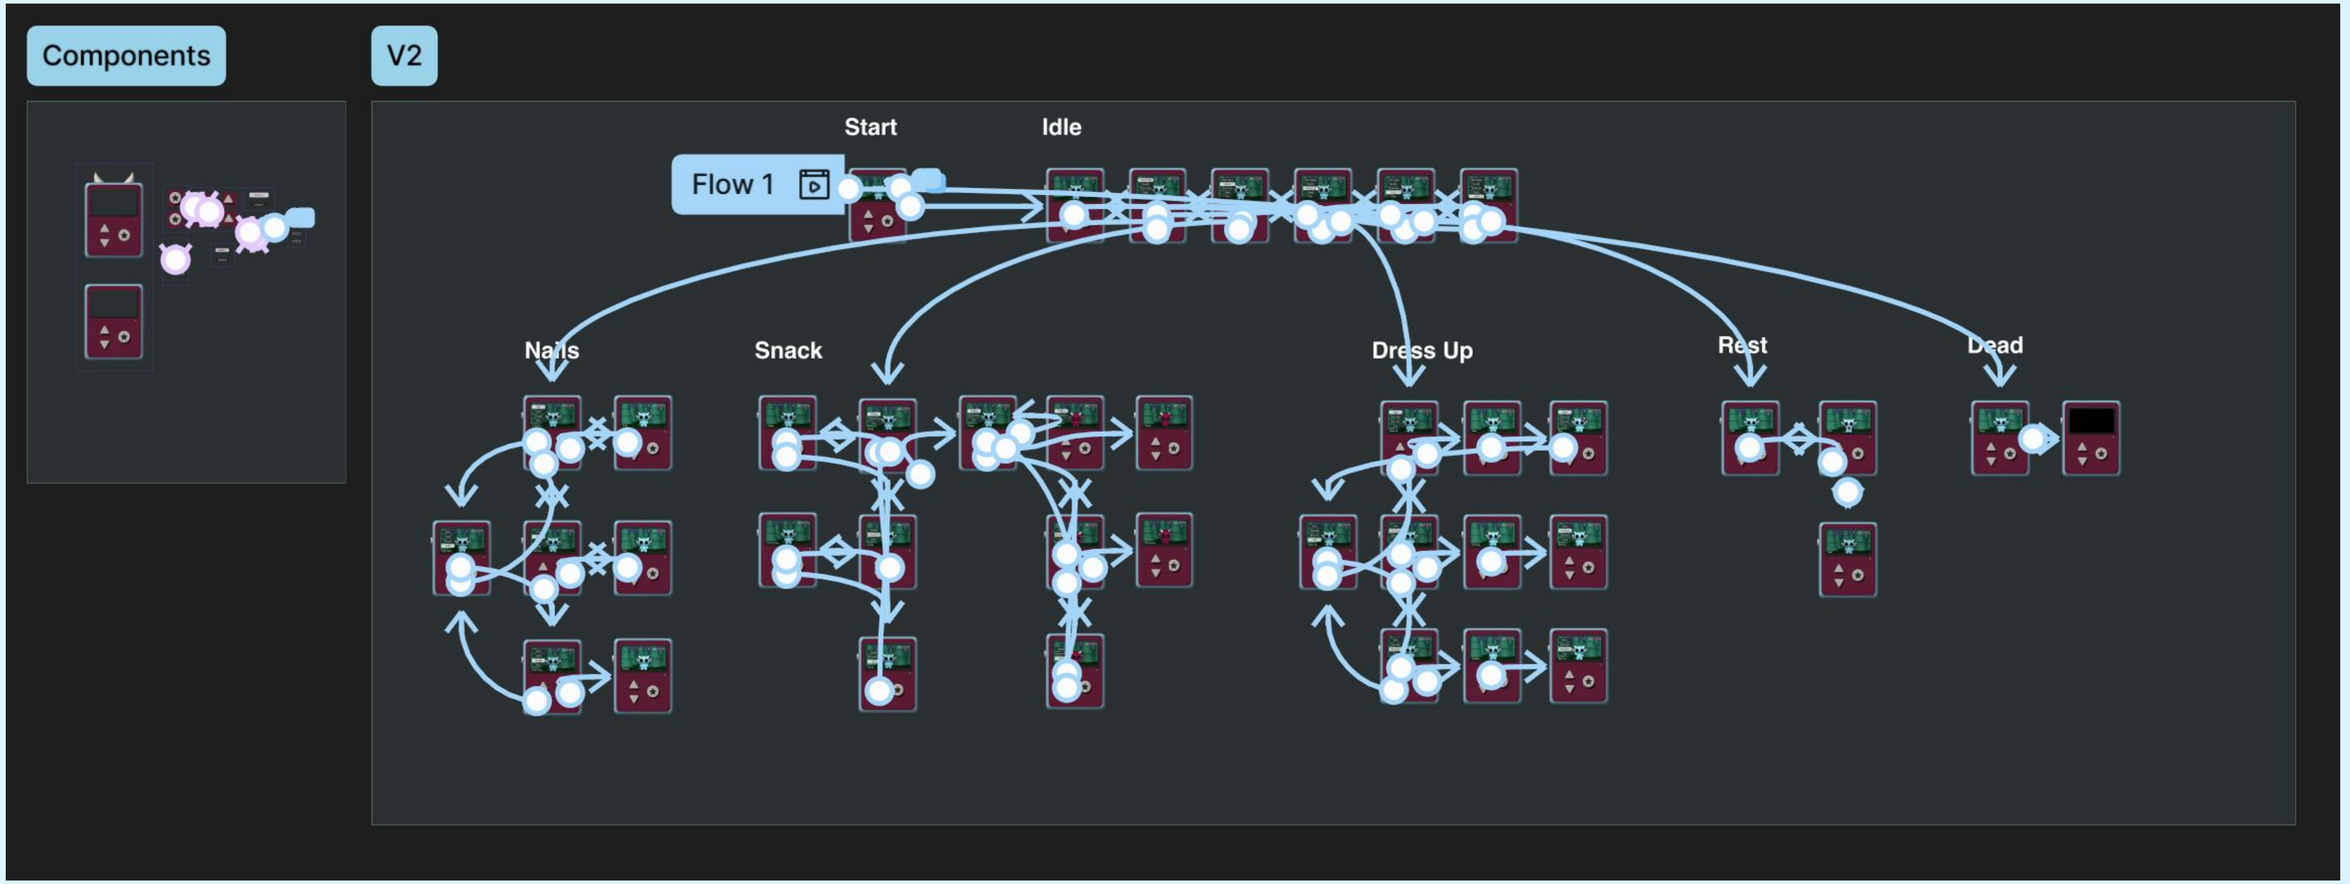

When she’s not being dramatic, she actually has a soft side. She:
- Collects shiny buttons from travelers' coats (she doesn’t ask permission)
- Practices “glamour growling” — a kind of musical roar performance
- Throws midnight tantrums when her horns don’t curl just right
- Sends psychic vibes to the moon asking for “better snacks and less weirdos”

Hornelia might be moody, hangry, and slightly feral, but if you bring her a fresh mushroom tart and tell her she looks cute when she’s mad, she’ll probably let you braid her tail and tell you all her weird little secrets.
Just don’t ever take the last Moonberry Popshroom.

Like, ever.

Reflection

Starting this project, I had a lot of fun ideas that I wanted to try and create. When I started designing the character I ran into my first set of issues. I had to make sure I was able to animate whatever I created and not over complicate my design. Working with a new 3D program, Spline, It was difficult to find a design I was happy with. I eventually just decided to put in some shapes and manipulate them into something I believe looked good, hence why I'm not to sure what Britney really is. I followed this strategy to make the background and I built upon Britney's style for the case. I really wanted to make the case super cute and detailed but kept the reasonable approach of a simple working design. Before prototyping, I needed to animate my actions in spline. I struggled with how I could make everything move together and be triggered to animate smoothly. I found the best option to be triggering everything by keys. I then had to screen record everything using the snipping tool because splines export will change timing of videos for some reason. When putting all of my assets into Figma, I mainly struggled with the buttons, and actions along with their timing. The buttons gave me some trouble getting them to look and behave like a 3D asset. While putting in all the videos I had to pay attention closely to how I time things like after delay or menu changes as to not cause the screen to look like its glitching. It still does sometimes when the frame is changed before the video is done playing. The main thing I struggled with a lot and isn't seen in my Tamagotchi is sound. I attempted to add clicking to the buttons but the timing wasn't working along with the action of pressing. Overall I wouldn't be to sure of what kind of sound to import into this piece. I definitely believe I should have spent more time learning that aspect just to add to the experience. But overall with my Tamagotchi, I am quite happy with Britney's fun, cute design and sassy personality.
